Bringing you the tools for change

Submitted by Rebecca Kellner,
VP of Legislation

Who has ideas that could make their workplaces better or more competitive? I'm looking at you HR! Ok, what have we done to make that difference? I know we're busy - we all have so many obligations. And then there's the fact that we're each just one voice. But why not you? Who else is going to stand up and voice their concerns and make a change? We can be that change. SHRM, under the guidance of its new CEO, has expressed its bold new purpose, which includes advocating for our profession.

In an effort to make it just a little bit easier, over the next couple months when we return to programming, we're going to try to bring local and state legislators to our meetings. We want you to have a chance to meet them and hear from them about what workplace issues are important. You can choose to engage at the meeting, or subsequently, or it may impact your choice as you head to the ballots in November. Either way, we think this is a positive step in the direction of advocating for the HR profession and we're excited to offer this opportunity.

To learn about the issues and the tools SHRM has for you, check out our blog post on this subject at www.fvshrm.org/member-blog
